COUNTY PAYS C.F. M'CAFFREY

JUDGE E. T. BAILEY SIGNS WARRANT LATE YESTERDAY.

HAS FOUGHT THE ISSUE

Presiding Judge Says That It Is Only Thing Court Could Do—Means Hindering of Bridge Work.

Judge E. T. Bailey, presiding judge of the County Court at five o'clock yesterday afternoon signed warrants for the $5,000 back salary due Charles F. McCaffrey as Prosecuting Attorney for the years 1921 and 1922. Mr. McCaffrey was paid $2500 a year for each of these two years and the recent decision of the Supreme Court awards him an additional $2500, making his salary on the basis of $5,000 per year.

The money was paid to Mr. McCaffrey in five $1000 warrants, which will be protested by the County Treasurer until about the middle of January, 1926, when all of the 1925 taxes are in.

Judge Bailey held off the making of a decision as to whether he would sign the McCaffrey warrants until the last possible moment, a full day after the County Court had adjourned. He states he debated the proposition at length in his own mind and from every angle, and finally acted on the best legal advice obtainable.

No Bridge Work.

In the opinion of the Judges the County Court bridge and road work in the county will suffer, and very little bridge work, if any, will be done this year, if back salaries must be paid to McCaffrey and to O. L. Curl and George P. Wright, the Prosecutors who succeeded Mr. McCaffrey.

The payment of the back salaries of the three Prosecuting Attorneys will mean a drain of $12,500 on the county treasury, for which there has been no appropriation and the county now has $17,000 in outstanding bridge warrants with four years' interest thereon to be paid this year. All these demands will exhaust the county funds.

Claims It Affects Others.

It is claimed in some counties that the Supreme Court decision above referred to will operate similarly to increase the salaries of the County Superintendent of Schools, County Clerk, and Circuit Clerk. It is reported that steps are being taken to institute a suit on this theory by some of these county officers in other counties. Judge Bailey states that if actions of this nature are instituted in Nodaway County they will be resisted and taken to the Supreme Court on appeal, if necessary. The statutes affecting the salaries of these several officers are not all in the same language and the holding of the Supreme Court in the McCaffrey case would not necessarily apply to the salaries of other county officers.

The 1919 statutes fix the salary of the Prosecuting Attorney on a population basis and provided that the population was to be determined by multiplying the whole number of votes cast at the last preceding presidential election by five, until after the population of the county should have been ascertained by the next decennial census.

The Equal Suffrage amendment was in force and women voted at the General Election in November, 1920, which increased the vote nearly one-half through the whole state. In 1921 the Legislature amended the law fixing the salary of Prosecuting Attorneys and provided that in determining what the compensation of the Prosecutor should be on a population basis the highest number of votes cast in the county for any one office at the last presidential election should be multiplied by three instead of five.

Detect Flaw in Law.

A flaw was detected in this last law and Charles F. McCaffrey, former prosecutor, sued the county court for back salary, asking for $5,000 a year. The population of the county is now about 27,000, but according to the law as sustained by the Supreme court, multiplying the total vote by five, makes the population of Nodaway County around 60,000, on which basis the prosecuting attorney would receive $5,000 a year.

Law Unconstitutional.

In circuit court two years ago Judge John M. Dawson rendered a decision in favor of Mr. McCaffrey and the plaintiff got judgment for $5,000. The county court appealed the case. The Supreme Court sustained Judge Dawson's decision and declared the act of the General Assembly in 1921 unconstitutional, through a technicality. The last two General Assemblies failed to provide any other basis for payment of prosecuting attorneys.

During the last session of the Legislature, the Senate passed a bill making the government census the basis for salaries instead of multiplying the total vote of the county by five. This bill was sent to the House where it died of neglect.

Judge Bailey's Statement.

Concerning the whole matter Judge Bailey said:

"The payment of this back salary is a rank injustice, but I see no other way out of it. I would rather resign my office than sign the warrants. I had my mind fully made up to resign rather than to do so, but have had the advice of good lawyers during the last three days and find that the law would make me and the other Judges of the County Court individually responsible for a failure to pay the amount due in view of the holding of the Supreme Court. The resignation of one or all of the three County Judges would not relieve the county of the liability, and might impose an additional personal liability on us.

"We have fought this back salary suit for more than two years, but have finally come to the point where there is nothing left to do but to comply with the mandate of the highest court in the state.

"The County Court is of the firm opinion that the Legislature did not intend Prosecuting Attorneys should be paid on the basis of five times the total vote of the county, since the passage of the amended law in 1921, and we have been trying to the limit to protect the tax payers.

"I came into office as Presiding Judge of the County Court six years ago, when the county had $80,000 in outstanding bridge warrants I wanted to do the best I could by the county and to help it get into a good financial condition. We have reduced the amount of outstanding bridge warrants to $17,000 and hoped to clear up these during the present year.

"Mr. O. L. Curl, the retiring Prosecuting Attorney and Mr. George P. Wright, the present Prosecuting Attorney have presented bill to the Court on the basis that the $5,000 a year salary law applies to them the same as to Mr. McCaffrey. The Court has only paid Curl on the basis of $2500 a year and will pay Mr. Wright on the same basis. It is our present intention to let these claims, also be sued on and go to the Supreme Court if the full $5,000 a year salary is insisted on."

CENSUS ONLY FAIR METHOD

SENATOR M. E. FORD COMMENTS ON PRESENT LAW

VOTE CHANGES MUCH

Ruling of Supreme Court Regarding Prosecuting Attorneys Salaries Will Cost Approximately $100,000

That the government census taken every ten years is the only fair basis of fixing salaries of county officers is the opinion of Senator M. E. Ford in commenting on the present statute regulating the salaries of prosecuting attorneys by multiplying the vote by five in order to determine the population of a county.

"The present law is not fair because it makes the population of any county dependent upon an election," Senator Ford said this morning. "In some cases, where there is a hot contest in a county, a heavy vote will be cast. In other cases, only a small number of people will go to the polls, and thus, according to the letter of the law, the population of a county may be doubled or may be decreased by half."

Eighteen counties in Missouri, including Nodaway, will pay their prosecuting attorneys $5,000 per year as a result of the recent ruling of the Supreme Court, Senator Ford said. This salary is paid in counties having a population of between 50,000 and 70,000.

The ruling of the court will increase the salaries of prosecuting attorneys in other counties but $100 or $200 a year in accordance with the statute of 1919. It is only in counties having a population of between 50,000 and 70,000 that the salary of the prosecuting attorney is doubled.

Senator Ford is of the opinion that the ruling of the supreme court will cost the taxpayers of Missouri approximately $100,000 in back salaries.

The law of 1919 fixed the salaries of the prosecuting attorneys in accordance with the population, determined by multiplying the total vote by five. In 1921, the Legislature attempted to remedy this, on account of women being permitted to vote. The session that year passed a law declaring that the population was to be determined by multiplying total vote by three and one-half instead of five. The 1921 law provided further that the county courts had the power to make either the 1919 or 1921 law operative, and it was because of this feature that the Supreme Court declared the 1921 law unconstitutional on the theory that it would not uniform throughout the state.

During the last session of the Legislature, the Senate attempted to remedy the situation by passing a law making the government census as the basis for determining salaries. The bill was sent on to the House where it died of neglect.

In addition to Nodaway, prosecuting attorneys in the following counties will be paid at the rate of $5,000 per year: Boone, Cole, Cape Girardeau, Daviess, Franklin, Greene, Henry, Jefferson, Johnson, Lafayette, Linn, Macon, Marion, Pettis, Randolph, Saline and Vernon

Barricades on South Road are Taken Down

The barricades on the state highway number 27 south of Maryville were taken down today, according to the project engineer. However, the detour signs will not be put up for a few days he said.

The better way to get onto the state pavement is to go down Buchanan street to Lincoln, turn west to the Joseph Jackson corner and go south to the first road that goes east. This will bring traffic on the state highway at a point in front of the Engelmann greenhouses.

The detour to get to the highway is necessary because South Main street from Lincoln street south is closed on account of the fact that it is now being paved.

FREE SPEECH NOT AT STAKE

WILLIAM J. BRYAN TELLS VIEWS ON SCOPES CASE.

TO TEST LAW ONLY

Prosecution Will Not Bring In Biblical Truth Or Religious Conflict With Evolution Theory.

Nashville, Tenn., June 4.—Vigorously championing the rights of the taxpayers of a state to dictate what shall be taught in their public schools, William Jennings Bryan, who arrived here today, laid down the principles upon which the prosecution will base its case about July 10 against Prog. J. T. Scopes, Dayton school teacher accused of having violated the Tennessee evolution law.

In an interview with newspaper men after a conference with associate attorneys Bryan declared that Scopes would not be prosecuted for his individual belief or utterances but because he was teaching children in the schools of the state a theory contrary to the state's law.

Bryan asserted that northern newspapers were wrong in claiming that the right of free speech and freedom of conscience was being endangered in the prosecution of Scopes.

The prosecution will base its case on the constitutionality of the law and will not bring into the case the question of Biblical truth or religious conflict with the evolution theory, the Commoner said.

The following temporary chairmen have been appointed by the College authorities to take charge of the groups tomorrow until officers are elected: Bessie Patton, Andrew County; O. C. Williams, Atchison County; Miss Porter, Buchanan County; Ruth Jones, Caldwell County; E. O. Harvey, Carroll County; Gladys Groves, Clay County; Pauline Shirk, Clinton County; W. K. POLICE GUARD IS WEAKENED

CHINESE POLICE FAIL TO REPORT FOR DUTY.

QUIT IN SHANGHAI

Conditions There Described as "Serious"—100,000 Workers Are Out on a Strike.

Shanghai, June 5, 1 a. m.—Approximately one hundred members of the Chinese branch of the Shanghai municipal police force failed to report for duty on the midnight shift while the remaining 1,500 members were wavering between holding to their duties or joining the ranks of the strikers, who have tied up all city activities.

All of the absentees had previously turned in their guns and ammunition and no disorders attended their defection.

The strike of the entire Chinese force would leave on the regular force approximately 300 foreigners in addition to 1,000 civilian special officers. These special officers took up the posts of the strikers.

Shanghai, June 4.—Quiet fell over the city today after many days of excitement caused by rioting students. A new weapon has been confirmed to be used against the strikers with a view to cutting all off by starvation, and a campaign of starvation is to be conducted. The city today is sweltering under a hot sun.

House servants, heretofore loyal, have been reached by the strikers. The streets were quiet today and were under heavy guard. Six hundred British sailors are on a British cruiser that is in the harbor.

As the strikers number around 100,000 it is thought that the guard would be increased, as the strikers appear to be increasing in number.

Washington, June 4.—Conditions at Shanghai were described as "exceedingly serious" in a cablegram received today by the state department from Edwin S. Cunningham, American consul general there.

Mr. Cunningham said there were indications the trouble would spread beyond the international settlement at Shanghai.

The consul general estimated the strike of Chinese workers at the time his message was sent involved probably fifty thousand men in addition to the workers in Shanghai cotton mills, where the trouble originated. All shops in the international settlement remained closed, he said.

Additional war vessels had been made necessary by the sniping tactics adopted by the Chinese students, who are leading in the disorders, and two more British cruisers were due at Shanghai today.

Another Witness in Case Has Disappeared

Estelle Gehling, Pretty Dark-Haired Nurse, Cannot Be Found When Sent For.

Chicago, June 4.—Estelle Gehling, the pretty dark-haired nurse, to whom William D. Shepherd wrote "Precious Sunshine" and "Dear Pal of Mine," letters which he signed "Loving Darl" today was added to the list of missing witnesses for the state in the trial of William D. Shepherd on a charge of killing Billy McClintock with typhoid germs.

Miss Gehling, discouraged, penniless and frantic because of the notoriety which prevented her obtaining employment, dropped from sight two weeks ago after checking out from the hotel where she had lived for two months. The summons server reported that she cannot be found. Detectives have been sent out to search for the missing girl.

Philadelphia Set Official Heat Record For 24 Hours With Mercury at 98 Degrees.

Washington, June 4.—High temperatures will continue through Friday at least in the eastern and southeastern states, the weather bureau predicted. Local showers are probable, however, in the lower lake region and northern New England.

Philadelphia set the official heat record for 24 hours with 98 degrees.

Seven dead in New York, three in Chicago, two in Detroit and four in New England was the result of the heat wave in those sections today.

Storms in Iowa and around Minneapolis had claimed fourteen more lives.

The unusual warm wave, which has settled over a greater part of the county, has killed a score. Almost that number are dead as a result of the storms, resulting from the hot weather, with prostrations reported in increasing numbers in the large population centers. The weather bureaus hold no prospects for relief from the Rocky Mountains to the Eastern Seaboard.

Miss Jane Hutchinson of Paris, Mo., came last Friday to spend the summer with Dr. Anna Smock and Dr. Anna Davis.

For 20 Cents

Kansas City, June 4.—Max Rope, mail carrier, picked up nine sticks of rhubarb that fell out of a broken package at the postoffice. It was bruised and about to spoil.

"Throw it away," said a fellow employe.

Rope was going to. Then he remembered that his sister-in-law, ill, liked rhubarb sauce and thought she might as well have it; so he took it home for her.

Thereupon the district attorney and secret service got busy and Rope was indicted for theft. The rhubarb was worth 20 cents.

He was acquitted in short order, but he had to mortgage his house and he lost his job. In a few years he would have been eligible for retirement pay.

Copenhagen, Norway, From Naval Station O. R. The fleet, also comprises two airplanes and six men. Both planes are equipped with wireless so that the flyers can be in constant communication with the government.

Oslo, Norway, June 4.—Interested parties were inclined to doubt the value of the Norweigan airplanes going to the relief of the Amundsen expedition that started for the North Pole. They placed doubts on the fact that the government has given orders that they proceed only to the edge of the ice and go no farther.

Like the man himself, the funeral ceremony for Thomas Riley Marshall at the quiet little home was plain. It began with the religious service, then came the Scottish Rite service conducted by William Geake, deputy for Indiana. The Scottish Rite choir chanted a few hymns and then the slow march to Crown Hill cemetery was started.

Spirit of People Is Biggest Factor in Community Life

The following is the second installment of an article on "Community Advertising," written for the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

John Wannamaker of Philadelphia once said: "If my institution can serve the public better than any other institution, then the public can be persuaded to make a beaten path to my door." That community will continue to prosper that serves best. Communities are built where men want them. Gary, Ind., was built within a very short space of time, comparatively recently, not because of its close proximity to a supply of either iron or coal, but by men who dreamed practical dreams.

It is the spirit of the 'people' that makes any community great. People are not drawn by accident. Something must attract them. This can be accomplished only through the aid of optimists, for to them are due all the great things that have been accomplished since the world began. A pessimist is a mill stone around the neck of a community. To be lasting, prosperity must be shared by all. There is enough ability in any community to take care of any crisis that may arise. Men can be 'made' as well as 'born.'

A community without leadership is like the forest traveler without a guide—he never knows where he is going, therefore, he never gets anywhere.

Before being advertised successfully, the community must first be placed in order to render it capable of receiving and caring for the expected increase. Every community has advertising assets which the local people should know about in an intimate way. Community 'selling' must adhere to the usual and accepted advertising practices, although each plan requires a different treatment. Every satisfied customer becomes a salesman, and "word-of-mouth" advertising is the most effective and least expensive method known.

The city of Atlanta, Ga., (population over 200,000) appropriates $20,000.00 per year, (about ten cents per capita) to help publish "The City Builder," a monthly magazine with a circulation of 8,000 copies.

Clymens-Fitch Wedding.

(Hopkins Journal)

At five o'clock Thursday afternoon, May 28, a quiet but very pretty wedding took place in the parsonage of Park Methodist church, 900 Paris avenue, Hannibal, Mo., when Miss Ruth Clymens, of Hopkins, Mo., became the bride of Mr. A. H. Fitch of Centerview, Mo. Rev. Franklin Riley Poage, pastor of Park church, read the marriage service, and the ring ceremony was used. Miller, the latter a sister of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shepherd and daughter Mary Evelyn and Mrs. W. L. Abright. The bride wore an attractive ensemble suit of blue and white faille, and her hat, which was a chic spring model, to correspond. Roses formed her corsage. A SCHOOL PROBLEM

The city of Maryville, Mo., is confronted with the problem of building more school houses or adopting the two-group system of teaching. Rooms in two of the buildings are crowded with an average of fifty pupils to the room which is generally admitted is too large a number for best results under the average teacher. The two-group system has been tried successfully in St. Louis, Kansas City, Columbia, Liberty, Chillicothe and other cities. Under this system half the pupils go to school at eight o'clock in the morning and continue without intermisison until 12:30. The other group starts at 1 o'clock and continues to 5:30. Experiments have been found that each group gets better results than for the entire number to remain in session from 9 to 4. Of course the strain upon a teacher from 8:00 to 5:30 is too great and some extra teachers are necessary but the expense of the extra school rooms and the maintenance is thus saved.—Shenandoah Sentinel-World.

Mrs. Ernest Brown, her son, Paul, and daughter, Mrs. Harold Lyle, Miss Edna Bridgeman and Miss Lola Marion of Maitland were Maryville visitors today.

Your Last Name

IS IT CHAMBERLAIN?

THIS name belongs to the class of official nomenclature, and like Stewart is derived from what was originally a more humble office than it later came to be. The chamberlain was probably in early times an official attached to the household of a king or lord, though it later came to be restricted to very high judicial office. The name is spelled in various ways in old records, though at the present time the only forms usually found, besides Chamberlain, are Chamberlin and Chamberlen. The spelling Chamberlain is very much more usual than the others. Chamberlayne is a usual form in old records both here and in England.

One of the large families of the name in England claimed descent from the counts of Cantarville, who were hereditary chamberlains of the dukes of Normandy and early Norman kings of England.

During the reigns of the Stewart kings there were a number of noted physicians belonging to a French family of Chamberlains. This family is said to have been founded in England by William Chamberlain, a Huguenot who fled to England in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. They were obstetricians of note who were employed by the queens and princesses of the royal family for many years.

In this country there have been two governors of the name, Daniel Henry Chamberlain, governor of South Carolina, and Joshua L. Chamberlain, governor of Maine.

LUTHER—This is a German family name derived from an old German personal name, Luther, which is the equivalent of the French Lothair. In this country there is a Rhode Island family of the name who claim Welsh descent, though I cannot find the name in Wales. They were prominent Baptists and founded one of the earliest churches of that denomination in this country.

Attorneys Decide on Inquiry Scope

Vote Contest Case Will Not Start In Supreme Court.

St. Louis, June 4.—Attorneys for William L. Igoe, Democrat, and Mayor Victor J. Miller, Republican, have tentatively agreed upon the form of the ballot inquiry in the Igoe contest proceedings for the mayoralty, Henry Kortjohn, Jr., chief counsel for Miller, announced last night.

This obviates the possibility of recourse to the supreme court at the outset to determine the scope of the contest inquiry.

Application for the order for the recount of the ballots and their examination will be made to Circuit Judge Franklin Miller today or Friday. It will be directed when issued to the election board, which under the statutes, 30 days in which to begin the recount and ballot examination.

Apparently the recount cannot begin before July, provided the election board takes the full time allotted by the statute.

The court order will provide for the following:

Recount of the ballots.

Description of the ballots in controversy.

Comparison of all the controverted ballots and the poll lists.

Certification of all facts obtained concerning the ballot to the court.

The theory of the Igoe contest is that enough ballots upon which Miller's name had been scratched and Igoe's written in had been counted for Miller or had been rejected, to wipe out Miller's 3,129 plurality.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 4.—All grain futures closed at sharply higher levels on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat featured, July going into new higher ground on the movement.

Strong buying in wheat was steady all day, based mainly on belief that American markets are now on a domestic basis. Crop news was pessimistic. Warm weather prevailed over the growing belt with no relief in sight. Much attention centered on Kansas. Views of various experts reduced the prospective yield for that state to seventy-one million bushels.

Buying in corn was based on hot winds over the belt. Very little pressure was brought into the pit at any time.

Oats were higher with other grains.

Provisions finished higher. Realizing sales were offset by liberal short covering. Big packers were heavy sellers.

Settling of Big Fill Causes Main to Burst

The bursting of the city water main under the newly laid state highway paving, immediately north of the city night before last, was caused by the heavy fill settling, Mayor W. O. Garrett explained this morning.

The new road out of Maryville north goes directly over the city water main. The settling of this fill was natural, and was aided directly the other night by the heavy rain and the fact that concrete was laid on the roadway during the day.

As a result of the washing rain and the main leaking the newly laid concrete road was damaged, and had to be torn up by the paving company for a distance of eighty feet. This stretch that was torn up will not be replaced for some time, giving the big fill due time to become settled.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ault and Mrs. Ben Holtman of Ravenwood were Maryville visitors today.

EBERT LEAVES ON VACATION

MAY ATTEND A COACHING SCHOOL A FEW WEEKS.

COCKAYNE TO BE BACK

Arranged Games Next Fall With Chillicothe, Trenton, Lafayette, Cameron and Excelsior Springs.

Harold G. Ebert, instructor at the Maryville High School, who has successfully coached the Spoofhound athletic teams the last two years, will leave tomorrow for Des Moines, Ia.

Mr. Ebert said this afternoon that he had made no plans for the summer and could not say where he might spend his vacation. His former home used to be in Ohio and he may drive there before returning to Maryville the latter part of August.

Coach Ebert said that there is a slight possibility that he might attend a coaching school for a few weeks this summer, but if he does he did not know whether it would be at Notre Dame or at Urbana, Ill.

The High School athletic director said that he has some good prospective games lined up for the 1925 football season for the Spoofhounds, but no definite dates have been set.

Some of the teams that the Spoofhounds will have to encounter during the gridiron season next fall are Cameron, Lafayette, Excelsior Springs, Chillicothe and Trenton.

There has been some doubt expressed among some of the football fans as to whether Porterfield Cockayne, three letterman, who played fullback last fall, would return to the Maryville High School the coming school term. Porterfield has one semester before he will be graduated and said this afternoon that he would be in school next fall and report to Coach Ebert for football practice for another season in moleskins.

EVOLUTION IS BIG QUESTION

FREEDOM OF EDUCATION IS ON TRIAL.

OUTCOME IS WATCHED

Expected To Mark Turning Point In Intellectual History Of South—W. J. Bryan In Case.

Dayton, Tenn., June 4.—(United Press).—Freedom of education goes on trial in Tennessee when an unassuming young high school instructor, Professor John T. Scopes, is tried July 10th for a violation of a state law prohibiting the teaching of evolution.

The offense consisted merely in reading to a class on science in the Dayton and Rhea Central High School passages from a text book containing a discussion of the theory of evolution, which had been approved by the state board of education.

But the outcome of the trial is expected to mark a turning point in the intellectual history of the South, perhaps of the nation.

Men of science, religious leaders and great educators, not only throughout the United States, but of the entire world, will follow progress of the trial of Professor Scopes. Some of the foremost volunteered their services as counsel on either side. For the main issue involved is this:

"Is education permissible in subjects which conflict with the religious beliefs of a majority of the community?"

Bryan In The Case.

Because the subject in this instance chanced to be evolution, and because William Jennings Bryan has injected his personality into the fight, and will act as advisory counsel for the prosecution, the issue of Fundamentalism versus Darwinism inevitably has been drawn in. But spokesmen for both sides are agreed that the question at stake is that of freedom of teaching.

Says Bryan, who has been visiting Southern legislatures and asking them to forbid the teaching of evolution in schools supported by the state:—

"The hand which writes the paychecks should rule the schools. The teachers are employes of the tax-payers and should no more be allowed to teach what they personally wish than a clerk should be allowed to dictate the policy of a bank.

"I believe the greatest menace we have to face today is the substitution of education for religion."

To which Judge John Randolph Neal of Knoxville, lawyer, educator and former professor in the law department of the University of Tennessee, who will assist the defense, replies:—

"As we see it, the great question is whether the Tennessee legislature has the power to prevent the young minds of Tennessee from knowing what has been thought and said by the world's greatest scientists, and thus prevent them from forming their own judgment in regard to questions of life and science."

To understand how the law which Professor Scopes is accused of violating came upon the statute books of Tennessee, it is necessary to go back two years, to the time when the evolution issue in this state first came into more than local notice.

The Issue Arises.

In 1923, Dr. J. W. Sprowls, professor of psychology at the University of Tennessee, ordered textbooks for his classes, one of which was Professor James Harvey Robinson's "Mind in the Making," which contained comment on the theory of evolution.

University officials objected to the textbooks. Soon afterwards Dr. Sprowls was notified he would not be recommended for re-election to the faculty.

Believing that a professor was entitled to a fair and impartial hearing before dismissal, some of Dr. Sprowls' colleagues sent a petition to the American Association of University Professors asking for an investigation of conditions at the University.

Members of the faculty then were summoned before Dean J. D. Hoskins, and asked whether they had signed the petition. As a result of the dean's inquiries, five other prominent professors received notice that they would not be recommended for re-election to the faculty.

These professors were: Judge John Randolph Neal, of the law department; Dr. A. A. Schaeffer, professor of zoology, who at the time was absent on research work for a national foundation; Dr. Maurice Mulvania, dean of the pre-medical school; Dr. Robert S. Ellis, of the department of pedagory; and Dr. Robert S. Radford, professor of Latin.

The Question Asked.

What these professors had asked the American Association of University Professors to investigate was whether two fundamental principles upheld by that organization had been violated at Tennessee. These principles were "academic freedom" and "tenure of office." The first of these upholds the right of a professor to present his own opinions and beliefs on scientific questions in the class-room. The second maintains that a professor cannot be removed from a faculty unless he breaks the rules of good conduct in such a way as to make need for his removal obvious.

These offenders who found themselves thus summarily ejected from their posts had long and honorable records of service at the University of Tennessee. Dean Mulvania had been there 17 years. Dr. Radford and Judge Neal had served for 14 years, and the others for long periods.

Judge Neal, who returns to the picture as leader of the defense in the present trial, was particularly well liked and strong protests were made by students and his friends. He was a graduate of the university, with a B. A. degree, and took the degrees of Master of Arts and Bachelor of Laws at Vanderbilt University and later a Ph. D. at Columbia. Before becoming a professor in the College of Law at the university he held a similar position in the University of Denver for some years.

In the ensuing Democratic primary election, Judge Neal's friends prevailed upon him to run for nomination for Governor. He did so and was defeated by Governor Austin H. Peay, who, as a trustee of the university had voted against ousting Judge Neal for the latter's defense of Professor Sprowls.

Judge Neal believes that his defeat may be attributed to the fact that an erroneous impression was circulated that he had been dismissed from the university because he was an evolutionist.

Tennessee Passes Law.

Shortly thereafter the Tennessee legislature passed a law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the public schools, which was signed by Governor Peay with the remark he believed there was a need for a return to the old-time religion today.

A few months ago, as an example of the working of this law, a proposal to have a series of lectures by Dr. Wolfgang Koehler, of the University of Berlin, outstanding authority on anthrapoid apes, was vetoed by the administration of the University of Tenneesee.

This is the background to the trial of Professor Scopes, who is 24 years of age, mild-mannered and retiring of disposition, a teacher of science in the Dayton and Rhea Central High School, and a popular athletic instructor.

Opponents of the anti-evolution law who wished to test its constitutionality persuaded Professor Scopes, considerably against his will, to become the central figure at the trial. Between March 21, 1925, when the anti-evolution bill became a law and May 1, when school closed, Professor Scopes told his class in science the story of the evolution of man as outlined by Darwin.

"I would be the last man on earth to attack religion," he said, maintaining that there is no conflict between evolution, in which he believes, and religion.

Before a crowded court-room, Professor Scopes was found technically, if not intentionally, guilty of breaking the anti-evolution law, and was bound over in $1,000 bond and released on his own recognizance to await action by the grand jury.

The grand jury, or May 25, returned an indictment against Professor Scopes and the trial was set for July 10.

At the preliminary hearing, the prosecution was represented by Sue K. Hicks, Wallace C. Haggard and H. E. Judge John Neal, Judge John L. Godsey and W. E. Benson were counsel for the defense. Magistrate A. C. Benson presided over the hearing in the Rhea County Court House.

The Facts Admitted.

Although the prosecution was prepared to present an array of witnesses including high school students to prove that the theory of evolution had been taught by the defendant, an agreement between counsel resulted in only one witness being called. This was Professor Walter White, superintendent of schools for Rhea county, who testified that the text-book, which was Exibit A., had been approved by the state board of education and used by Professor Scopes in his classrooms. This book contained the following passage:

"Undoubtedly there once lived upon the earth races of men who were much lower in their mental organization than the present inhabitants. If we follow the early history of man upon the earth, we find that at first he must have been little better than one of the lower animals."

Defense attorneys maintained that the defendant in reading the above passage broke no valid law and set forth that the anti-evolution law of Tennessee is unconstitutional, according to Section 12 of Article II of the state constitution and the 14th amendment of the United States. They insisted evolution is not contrary to the teaching of the Bible, as maintained in the anti-evolution bill, which was passed by the legislature.

Professor Scopes, however, was found guilty. He returned to his home in Paducah, Ky., where he has since declared himself more interested in the sale of automobiles than in evolution. Scopes graduated from the University of Kentucky with the degree of A. B., and this was his first year as instructor at the Dayton and Rhea Central High School.

William Jennings Bryan offered his services to the prosecution, as the Tennessee anti-evolution law is dear to his heart. Attorney-General Frank M. Thompson accepted the Commoner's offer of co-operation.

Judge Neal then received a telegram from Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago attorney through whose efforts Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold escaped the death penalty, and Dudley Field Malone, New York trial lawyer and former Third Assistant Secretary of State, offering their services as defense counsel.

The Lawyers' Reply.

The lawyers telegraphed:—

"We are certain you need no assistance in your defense of Professor Scopes, who is to be prosecuted for teaching evolution. But we have read the report that Mr. William Jennings Bryan has volunteered to aid the prosecution.

"In view of the fact that scientists are so much interested in the pursuit of knowledge that they cannot make the money that lecturers and Florida real estate agents command, in case you should need us, we are willing, without fee or expenses, to help the defense of Professor Scopes in any way you suggest or direct."

Judge Neal accepted the offer.

In preparing his case, the chief counsel for the defense says he has examined various text-books used at the University of Tennessee and in the public schools of the state and says he has found them to contain the theories of evolution prohibited under the new state laws. These books have been approved by the state text-book commission.

"It is impossible for any instructor to teach biology, zoology, botany, geology, psychology, sociology, philosophy, history and other sciences according to text books now used in the high schools of the state and prescribed by law without violating this recently passed statute," Judge Neal said:

"When our trial occurs, we expect to have present as witnesses some of the greatest scientists and religious teachers in the world; for example, President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, Dr. Raymond Fosdick, Nicholas Murray Butler, as well as Dr. Mayo, of Rochester, and Dr. Haggard, president of the American Medical Association.

"Our efforts to have the law recently passed making it a criminal offense to teach in the public schools the Darwinian theory of evolution declared unconstitutional is not solely a fight in behalf of any theory of evolution. The question is not whether evolution is true or untrue, but involves the freedom of teaching."

Who's Who in The Evolution Trial.

Professor John T. Scopes, 24, of Paducah, Ky., instructor in science and athletics at the Dayton and Rhea Central High School, Dayton, Tenn., defendant, who is charged with violation of the state law of Tennessee which makes it a criminal offense to teach the Darwinian theory of evolution in the public schools.

William Jennings Bryan, associated with the counsel for the prosecution in his capacity as principal advocate of similar bills to that recently passed by the Tennessee legislature forbidding the teaching of evolution;

Clarence Darrow, famous criminal lawyer, whose services as associate counsel for the defense have been accepted by

Judge John Randolph Neal, of Konxville, former professor of law in the University of Tennessee, who was ousted from the faculty for his support of Dr. J. W. Sprowls, professor of psychology, who ordered some text-books which contained comment on evolution and was dismissed. Judge Neal will head the defense, and will have with him, besides Darrow, Dudley Field Malone, New York lawyer, a former Collector of the Port and former Third Assistant Secretary of State.

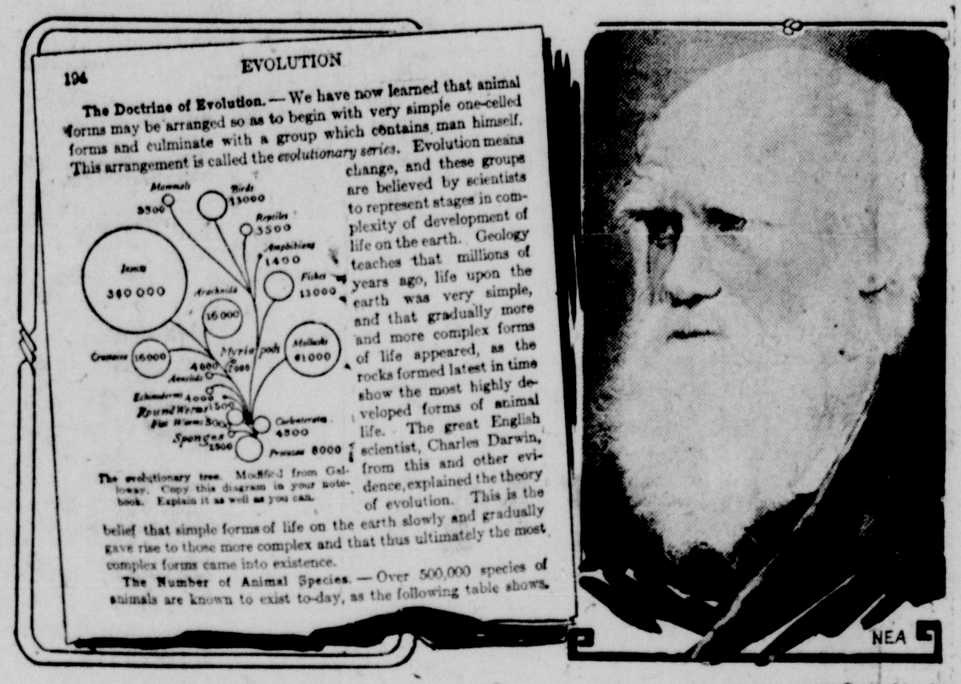
Judge John L. Godsey, and W. E. Benson, of Dayton, will assist the defense, while the prosecution is in charge of

Attorney-General Frank M. Thompson, of the State of Tennessee, who will have with him:

Sue K. Hicks, W. C. Haggard and H. E. Hicks, Dayton attorneys, who represented the prosecution in the preliminary hearing.

This Caused Scopes' Indictment



194 EVOLUTION
The Doctrine of Evolution.—We have now learned that animal forms may be arranged so as to begin with very simple one-celled forms and culminate with a group which contains man himself. This arrangement is called the evolutionary series. Evolution means change, and these groups are believed by scientists to represent stages in complexity of development of life on the earth. Geology teaches that millions of years ago, life upon the earth was very simple, and that gradually more and more complex forms of life appeared, as the rocks formed latest in time show the most highly developed forms of animal life. The great English scientist, Charles Darwin, from this and other evidence, explained the theory of evolution. This is the belief that simple forms of life on the earth slowly and gradually gave rise to those more complex and that thus ultimately the most complex forms came into existence.
The Number of Animal Species.—Over 500,000 species of animals are known to exist to-day, as the following table shows.
Mammals 9500
Birds 13000
Reptiles 3500
Amphibians 1400
Insects 340 000
Arachnids 16000
Fishes 13000
Crustacea 15000
Myriapods 4000
Annelids 3000
Mollusks 61000
Echinoderms 4000
Round Worms 1500
Flat Worms 3000
Coelenterata 4500
Sponges 1500
Protozoa 8000

This is what started all the trouble. It is a page from "George W. Hunter's "Civic Biology" text book, which John T. Scopes used in his classes at Dayton, Tenn., and for which he was indicted as a violator of the anti-evolution law. Accompanying is a picture of Charles Darwin.

Reduction of Passport Fees

(Ira Nelson Morris, President, Uncle Sam's Voters, Washington, D. C.).

European travel is heavier this season than it has ever been before. The number of aliens who have applied for permission to return to Europe temporarily is the largest in the history. The observances of Holy Year have called a great number of pilgrims to Rome, and continuance of British Empire Exposition has likewise been an attraction. Furthermore the steamship companies have made vigorous efforts to stimulate tourist traffic, since the reduction of immigration has left them with very little third-class traffic, and the establishment of "tourist third class" accommodations has been a result. Many thousands of American teachers and students have been able to go abroad, thanks to the introduction of the low third-class rates, and there will be a heavy movement across the Atlantic throughout the season.

Visa fees in certain European countries have been complained of as excessive and hampering to travel. As a rule the cost of a visa on a passport is $10, though Germany has reduced its visa fee to a nominal figure in order to attract tourists, and Switzerland, Holland and Belgium make no visa charge for short visits. The high charges made in other countries are largely retaliatory measures against the United States, for head taxes imposed on admissions to this country and for visa charges here. They are disposed to reduce visa charges if this country reciprocates.

Before the World War only Russia and Turkey required passports and visas, but the "democracy" produced by the war in Europe has taken the strange form of imposing the Russo-Turkish system practically everywhere. One of the complaints made against the visa system is that it is a nuisance, as well as expensive. Consideration of a plan to eliminate visa fees was under way in the short session of Congress, but the plan was not adopted. If it is adopted in the next session, the tourists who have paid high fees this summer will not benefit thereby.

Should the United States liberalize its passport regulations to make possible elimination of visa fees?

YES.

1. European travel is educational and should be promoted rather than discouraged. The United States will gain by having a widely traveled electorate, familiar with conditions abroad, and to hamper free movement by arbitrary restrictions on travel is undesirable from many points of view.

2. Visa fees may add as much as 10 per cent to the cost of a students' or teachers' tour. If five countries are visited the cost of the tour may not exceed $500 and the visa fees might run as high as $50. That additional $50 is a serious item to the average teacher or student.

3. It is not merely a matter of affecting the idle rich; in fact, it hardly affects that class at all. Visa fees amounting to $50 or $60 are not serious so far as that class is concerned. It affects American students, teachers, and artists—"The cultured poor," as Representative Bloom, of New York, describes them.

4. Time as well as money is an important item. On a short trip time is precious. The present visa regulations, says Mr. Bloom, are merely an opportunity for the American tourist abroad to be held up, inconvenienced and fleeced of extra money.

5. Monetary returns to the United States do not justify the continuation of the system. According to Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, the United States receives annually from visa fees on the passports of foreigners only $787,000, while its own citizens pay probably as much as $3,500,000 in similar fees to the European governments. Other estimates make the disparity even greater.

6. Eliminating visa fees would eliminate possibilities of graft, so far as passports and visas are concerned.

7. Americans in business abroad are continually hampered. Darius Alton Davis, an American Y. M. C. A. secretary, wrote Mr. Bloom that his visa fees on a trip to Constantinople amounted to almost as much as his railroad fares, and travelers generally consider the scheme an imposition.

NO.

1. American citizens can avoid running afoul of the passport and visa regulations by "seeing America first." If they have money to spend in travel it is to the interest of this country that they spend it here rather than in Europe. The drain of money from America to Europe is continuous; European travel by Americans benefits the European more than the American, whereas all Americans benefit if travel is within the borders of this country. There is no reason, to be sure, why Americans should not visit Europe, but it is time enough for that after they have seen their own country.

2. Most American tourists need spend less than $20, at the most, in visa fees—though they must all pay for their passports. The visa fee in France is only $5 and in Germany still less. Switzerland, Holland and Belgium make no charges, except for long stays. An extended continental tour might be undertaken at a cost for visas of less than $10. If the visa fee were removed local taxes would probably be advanced or some other means would be found of getting the money away from tourists. The European countries would not want to forego the revenues they now receive.

3. A part of the cost of visa fees is justified by service charges. Representative Linthicum suggests that the visa fee charged by this country might perhaps be cut to $2.

4. The United States foreign service (under the Rogers bill, consisting of a consolidated diplomatic and consular service) is now self supporting, but would not be if the visa revenues were entirely removed. Mr. Linthicum urged the adoption of the Rogers bill on the ground that it would mean no added cost to the people of the United States, and therefore did not favor depleting the revenues that keep it going, but felt that the fees might be reduced, the discretion being given the President.

5. Foreign travel is a luxury, even though those who engage in it may not be persons of large means. They should not object to the visa fees, for there are many Americans whose means do not permit them to travel.

Frost May 25 Caused Considerable Damage

Condition of Wheat Crop as a Whole Continues Satisfactory—Weather Has been Unfavorable for Corn.

The frost of May 25th seriously damaged most truck crops and small fruits in all parts of Missouri, except the extreme southeast counties. Wheat that was in bloom was only slightly touched in a few spots. Some early corn 3 to 5 inches high was cut down, necessitating a relatively small per cent of replanting; corn about an inch high, considerable being in this stage, was only slightly nipped or not at all. Tree fruits were not damaged to any appreciable extent.

There was a reaction to seasonable warmth and adequate sunshine after the 27th, along with a favorable response by all crops and vegetation. Beneficial showers fell over most of the State on two or three days, except in the southeast quarter. The total for the week was, as a rule, less than one inch, though that amount was exceded in Jackson, Cass, Cole, Barton and Benton Counties. There has been no appreciable rain in the southeast for about three weeks, and while conditions are not yet serious at the same time a good general rain is badly needed.

The condition and progress of the wheat crop as a whole, continues satisfactory; most of it is in bloom, short straw but good heads. There is some local premature ripening in the southeast counties due to the persistent dry weather. The oat crop is fair to good.

Until the last few days the weather has not been favorable for corn. Plants, as a rule, are yellow and growth is slow. The late planted is not coming up very well. An exception is found in the southeast where in spite of the lack of moisture, corn is looking fine, though beginning to need rain on the lighter soils.

Hay harvest has begun and the quantity is good. Pastures are satisfactory though more rain is needed in some quarters. Sunshine, with warm showers are needed to revive all of the less hardy vegetation.

In cotton counties, the crop has made fine growth, in spite of the lack of moisture. In some late planted or badly prepared fields, an on the lighter soils, rain is needed for continued normal growth.

IN PLEA FOR AIR SERVICE

COL. WILLIAM MITCHELL LEAVES WASHINGTON.

":NO PROGRESS NOW"

"Aviation Development Of This Country Stopped Three Years Ago," He Says In Final Interview.

Washington, June 4.—Colonel William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the army air service, has taken leave of Washington for his new post at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

"I have enjoyed my duty here but I am glad to leave because conditions have become such that no progress is possible in the war and navy departments" the fighting airman said in a farewell interview with the United Press.

"You could give the army and navy three times as much money as they are getting now and aviation would remain at a standstill. As long as the air forces remain under the war and navy departments they will not advance."

The storm center of the congressional aircraft contraversy whose dashing tactics brought about his demotion and transfer of his general's stars to another's shoulders expressed concern over the ability of the air service even to maintain its present position.

Many of the best fliers in the service are quitting, he says, because they are discouraged at the "present run of things." He attributed the decision of many to the curtailment of air operations and in particular to the postponement until next spring of bombing tests against moving vessels.

"Congress appropriated $50,000 for these tests and intended that they be held before the coming session, but somebody saw fit to put them off until next spring," he said. "Our fliers are not getting bombardment practice and when the tests are held next year they will in all probability fail miserably."

The flying general said he did not blame them for "appointing another man to my post."

"It is a political job" he said. "The man who gets it has to follow their policies. I didn't."

Mitchell took a last fling at those who hamper air development.

"Aviation development of this country stopped three years ago and we have been going back rapidly ever since" he said. "We held a world's record for 200 miles an hour for speed and if they hadn't stopped us we would be above the 300 mile mark now. The navy has had big appropriations for aviation but as yet to develop a plane that can go to sea with the fleet.

"The people should realize," he concluded, "the potentialities of aviation and order the government to carry out their will."

Children's Day to Be Observed at Elmo

(By Edgar O. Wells, Minister).

It is not the aftermath of war that is causing all the troubles of the present generation, but the aftermath of that little word of three letters, s-i-n, and it is as old as the garden of Eden, and as deadly as the smallpox, or typhoid, and no microscope of either a 19th, or 20th century scientist has ever been strong enough to reveal its germ, and the time was when it sought the cover of darkness in which to function, but now neither darkness or daylight can check it, or its ravages, but there is a law of eternal justice, that is as inexorable as that of the deadly electric current, and in chemistry as that of cyanide of potassium, and to use a Biblical term, "Be sure your sin will find you out."

Children's day, that day of all days to Methodist young people and children, is drawing near, and will receive full announcement next week.

The services for Sunday, June 7, will be of especial interest "for those who care," with a morning sermon on the theme of "The Heart of Our Father Revealed." At night, "The Only Sure Road to Riches." Sunday school 10:00 a. m. Sermon 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Watch these columns next week. Last but not least, the W. F. M. S. will be entertained at the Methodist parsonage on Thursday, June 11, 2:30 p. m.

GOOD HOPE.

June 2nd.—This evening we are having quite a nice rain and a much needed rain for the farming, gardens were dry, the corn coming along fine but needed moisture. It certainly is wonderful how well the corn looks, in general, considering the lateness of planting. the planting 10 days ago is ready for work in places.

If the weather has been cool there has been enough warm sunshiny days sanwiched in between the cold snaps to make alfalfa grow. Last week George Ulmer, Jr., put up 20 acres and Mart Young harvested hay. Either alfalfa or sweet clover but the present outlook for a hay crop is not first class because of so much cold dry weather.

The wheat and oats may come out but for this time of year neither one looks so very well. There are so many strange things happening all the time during this peculiar season we are having; that it is hard to tell what the outcome of these small grain crops will be when harvested.

Some folks thought the strawberry crop would be a total failure, but as usual, when we grumble at Nature, we are favored. Those who had their beds mulched heavily were fortunate when the hard freeze came ten or twelve days ago, for the berries that were hiding under the straw are coming forth now showing their bright red cheeck and there are many gallon being picked from the several patches although we do not nave the great quantity we had last year. If these showers continue at intervals there will be lots of other berries.

At Sunday School last Sunday at Good Hope the Sunday school Superintendent appointed Mrs. Oland Ringold and Mrs. Alvin Trueblood to train the children for the Children's Day services June 14th. All the children who will help are requested to be at Sunday school no later than next Sunday and all those who will take part in the senior choir are also invited. The programs are coming and will be ready to give out next Sunday or before, probably.

Last Sunday was an awful hard day on everything. The wind was high and the dust a fright, although it did not hinder a big attendance of our community folks at the Memorial services in Hopkins, while some went to the Shearer cemetery in the edge of Iowa and others somewhere else.

Thursday of last week Joe Ulmer and Asa Ringold, with their families went to Shenandoah, no doubt to see the sights and the underground reporter said they visited Henry Field's broadcasting station, the sight of which is worth any one's trip who never saw one.

Miss Margarite Dowling went to Maryville yesterday morning where she enrolled in the S. T. C. college for the summer term.

Earl Jones is home after a year's work as a student in the college.

Tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clymens expects their daughter, Ruth, who was married last Thursday in Hannibal to one of the Hannibal teachers, Mr. Albert Fitch, home, to visit a few days after which they will go to Warrensburg to enter school for the summer term.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Harris are nicely located in their farm home on the Butts place recently purchased from Mrs. Flossie Butts and they had for Saturday evening guests, to supper, Mrs. Harris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Ulmer and family, also an aunt, Mrs. A. P. Craighill and daughter from St. Joe.

As we close these notes, it still rains. We have had quite an electric stir in the air and a great big rain this evening or tonight. The farmers can't work in the fields tomorrow. We imagine there will be a lot of odd jobs done that have been waiting for a rainy day.

Wednesday morning—The rainfall last night is estimated to be about three inches, and it is still raining this morning, and thundering like more to come. It is feared that the corn is washed out in the side places.

ONE THING THEY CAN BOTH AGREE ON.

Maryville People Must Believe Such Convincing Testimony as Mr. Bryan's.

No one in Maryville who suffers backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this twice-told story of a Maryville resident. It is confirmed testimony, telling of lasting benefit from Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. It's evidence that no man or woman in Maryville can doubt.

J. N. Bryan, retired farmer, 222 Eleventh St., says: "I had intense soreness through the small of my back, which caused great pain when I tried to bend or straighten quickly. My kidneys acted too frequently, also. I used Doan's Pills and I found great relief. After using Doan's awhile I was cured.

Four years later, Mr. Bryan said: "I have had no return of the trouble since Doan's cured me."

PRESIDENT IS TAX EXEMPT

CONGRESS OVERSTEPS AUTHORITY IN RULING.

WILL MAKE REFUNDS

Estates of President Wilson and Harding to Receive Benefits—Vice-President Must Pay Tax.

By Herbert Little.

United Press Staff Corespondent.

(Copyright 1925 by United Press).

Washington, June 4.—President Coolidge has been exempted from paying income tax on his $75,000 a year salary.

Congress overstepped its constitutional powers by inserting clauses in the 1918, 1921 and 1924 revenue laws by specifying that judges of federal courts and the president of the United States must pay taxes.

The White House has been notified that a decision by the supreme court Monday ruling these provisions void insofar as they affect federal judges' salaries also applies to the president's salary. Mr. Coolidge is entitled to a refund on taxes on his salary in the latter half of 1923 and for 1924, if he has already paid.

The saving to the president is between $7,500 and $8,000.

The internal revenue department after digesting the opinion of the high court in the case of Samuel Graham of Maryland, will issue regulations directing their offices to exempt the salaries of federal judges and allow claims for refunds by estates, the United Press is informed. President Coolidge's salary will be exempted and he, as well as the estates of Presidents Wilson and Harding, will be granted refunds on the tax on their salaries as president, paid since 1918.

The constitution provides that the salaries of judges and of the president "shall not be diminished during their term of office." The supreme court held that this means the government cannot tax their salaries. Congress in 1918, five years after the income went into effect, worded its law expressly to include the salaries of the president and federal judges. It was this provision which the high court held was unconstitutional.

The vice president's salary is not exempted for taxation, however, because the constitution does not contain the provision prohibiting its "dimunition during his term of office."

Photoplay Version of "Three Weeks" Is Here

Elinor Glyn's novel, "Three Weeks," which created a sensation upon its publication in this country nearly fifteen years ago, has taken a new lease upon life. It is a remarkably vivid and beautiful love story which Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has made from her novel. The photoplay version directed by Alan Crosland, with the constant advice and assistance of the noted novelist, was shown last night at the Empire Theater and will be shown again tonight. It has been brought to the screen with a wealth of beautiful settings, with a cast of excellent players and with the most expert of direction.

The result is a picture which will satisfy the most captious patron of films. The story is found to be not a story of illicit passion for its own sake, as many critics of the book, upon its first publication, contended, but the romance of a great love which transgressed the laws of man and was punished for that transgression.

The role of the Queen is splendidly played by a comparative newcomer to the films—Aileen Pringle. She gives a really marvelous portrayal of the Queen in "Three Weeks."

Conrad Nagel has never done such sterling and sincere work as he does in the role of the lover. In fact, the entire cast is unusually able and makes the story live upon the screen. Dale Fuller, John Sainpolis, Mitchell Lewis, Stuart Holmes, Nigel de Brullier and others are all excellent.

"Why! He's Nothing But Skin and Bones"

"Marry Him! Never"

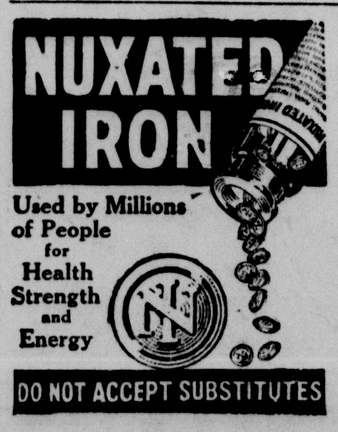
"Quit kidding me, Agnes; when I get ready to land a man he's got to be a real man with plenty of good healthy flesh on his bones."

"Of course, I dance with Ed; He's a good enough fellow and I just feel sorry for him, but no skinny, hollow cheeked, spindle shanked lath is going to sail the voyage of life with me."

Cheer up—Ed—things aren't as bad as they look to you right now. Many hundreds of skinny, gaunt, emaciated men looked even worse than you do till someone told them about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets (the new way to take Cod Liver Oil) and how it would put pounds of good firm, healthy flesh on their bones in just a few weeks.

Nothing like these health creating, weight producing tablets for skinny, underweight men, as thousands can testify. Start to take them today—60 tablets—60 cents at Maryville Drug Co., Gaugh & Evans, or any real druggist anywhere in North or South America.

And listen; If they don't put 5 pounds of good flesh on you in 30 days, get your money back — that's fair enough, but be sure—very sure that you get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine.



All State Roads to Be Well Maintained

Theodore Gary Invites Complaints If Maintenance Lags—Says No Money Is Going To Waste.

Macon, Mo., June 4.—"Among one of the things I wish to impress upon you tonight is that after your roads are built you are going to need maintenance. I want you to get hard-boiled on that. If you find one of your roads anywhere out of condition, that needs repairing, I want you to raise a fuss about it. These roads must be maintained or they will go to pieces."

Theodore Gary, while on a visit to his home in Macon this week, addressed a largely attended meeting of the chamber of commerce, on the work of the highway commission. He dwelt with particular emphasis upon maintenance after the road is constructed, and went on:

"Whenever you see a piece of roadway that is neglected it is your duty to register a kick—a decided one! If the men in your neighborhood are not showing the proper diligence in keeping these roads up report them to the higher authority and the condition will be promptly remedied.

Money for Maintenance.

"I want to arouse the public so they will never permit any man to be in office on any branch of the highway department who does not hold to this idea. If the roads are allowed to go to pieces it is somebody's fault. It is not because we don't have the money to maintain them.

"The art of road building requires a high degree of skill, honesty and integrity. Contractors must be required to put up their work strictly according to specifications. That is a hard test on the average man, but we have a corps of men who have carried that requirement in road building. They are 100 per cent efficient.

"Of course we may make mistakes of judgment, but what I am trying to impress upon you is that not a dollar of your money is going wrong. I don't know of anybody who has ever heard of a dollar going wrong in the entire department. Nobody will get a dollar from it without a dollar's worth of service.

Experts and Good Business.

"The commission itself doesn't pretend to know how to build roads, but it does know how to set up a business organization, and how to choose men who are experts, practical road builders, and to surround the organization with good business methods, and to see that the work as planned is carried out economically and efficiently.

Mr. Gary said the actual prosecution of the road program was in the hands of ten division engineers and the ten bureau heads at Jefferson City. Before long, he said, there would be moving between 4,000 and 5,000 carloads of material a week.

"The highway department proposes to give everybody a fair hearing on any part of its work," said Mr. Gary. "It may not be able to grant what everybody wants, but it will give a just consideration to every suggestion or recommendation placed before it."

Hunting Permits May Be Issued by Agents

Announcement has been made that the recent Legislature passed a law which authorizes the sale of hunting and fishing licenses through banks, hardware stores, drug stores and other agencies.

Heretofore hunting and fishing licenses could be sold only by the county clerk. The purpose of the new law is to secure greater distribution of licenses so it will be easier for the public to buy them. The new law authorizes the county clerk to appoint whomsoever he desires as an agent for the sale of licenses.

An increased income of $25,000 per annum is anticipated as a result of the new law according to Keith McCanse, Game and Fish Commissioner. These additional funds will be used in extending the state park system, development of fish hatcheries and employing deputy game and fish commissioners.

The practice of ordering hunting and fishing licenses through notaries public and justices of the peace, which has been followed in many communities, will be entirely in order to procure a license.

CAL'S VISIT EXCITES NATIVES OF SWAMPSCOTT

Massachusetts Town Is Dressing Up For Visit of President Expected About June 15.

Swampscott, Mass., June 4.—The grocer, the mailman, the lobsterman, the neighbors, even the special police officer on duty have taken a new lease on life and step about town with unprecedented vigor.

In fact, the whole community is in a bustle of excitement over the coming of President Calvin Coolidge, which is scheduled for June 15.

Jerry Shea, caretaker of the palatial Summer home, White Court, at Little Point, already has begun a thorough Spring cleaning of the magnificent rooms where the President will rest throughout the hot weather. The floors are being revarnished, the furniture polished and everything put in top-notch shape for the Presidential approval.

Excellent Location.

"I've been here all Winter," said Jerry, "and I expect I'll be here all Summer. I know the place from top to bottom; know just how much coal it takes to heat it in the Winter, and how much ice to order to keep things cool in the Summer."

White Court is in an excellent location. The front of the house commands a view over the ocean, and the rear entrance is reached by a driveway bordered by elms and maples. A large veranda encircles three sides of the structure, and a sun porch and breakfast room flank the rear of the mansion.

A large living room, adjoined by a library, and a French drawing room are on the first floor; and the dining room and study, which will be set aside for the Chief Executive's use, also occupy the first floor.

Six bedrooms, with baths are on the second floor, and five bed-rooms and baths take up most of the space on the third floor.

Luxuriously Furnished.

All of the rooms are luxuriously furnished. Bright-colored cretonnes and pastel wall tints give them a refreshing appearance. Most of the furniture is of the light, wicker variety.

The breakfast room is charming, with its rose and cream-colored wicker.

Two swimming pools, cut into the rocks, overhanging the ocean, will afford the Coolidges the choice of ocean bathing or a plunge into the smaller depths of a pool.

White Court is surrounded by other luxurious mansions. Red Gables, the Summer home of Frank W. Stearns, is nearby.

The estate of Charles Beard, Charles E. Brushe, Thomas W. Proctor and others are within short walking distance.

A Woman Can Keep a Secret.

Harrisburg, Ill., June 3.—Can a woman keep a secret?

Miss Mary Iva Mofield claims to have proved that a woman can and does keep a secret. She counters that men also—at least one in particular—likewise can keep a closed mouth.

Last February Miss Mofield married Orville Carrington at Murphysboro.

Friends were unaware of it until an announcement was made here recently.

NEWS FROM MISSOURI CITIES AND TOWNS

Macon, Mo., June 4—A local boy, Hunter L. Purdy, will represent the State of Missouri at the State fair at Sedalia. Purdy won this honor in contest with 114 others in a competitive essay contest. Purdy represented Macon county at the fair last year.

Moberly, Mo., June 4.—The Randolph county circuit court which opened the June term here Monday has an unusually heavy docket. One of the first cases to come up was that of Lloyd McCanne, former Moberly police officer. He entered a plea to felonious assault and was fined $25 and costs.

Rocheport, Mo., June 4.—Hugo Dietrich, 62, a pioneer resident of this section who died recently had the distinction of being "the fastest barber in the world." He won the honor in competition with other tonsorial artists at the World Fair in St. Louis.

Columbia, Mo., June 4.—A tax levy of one mill on the dollar is proposed by Dean Isidor Loeb, in a farewell speech before the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi fraternities here, to be devoted to educational purposes of the University of Missouri.

Loeb favors a bill in the next legislature asking the levy which, if not used alone to benefit the University, be made to benefit jointly the University and other state institutions. The tax under Loeb's plan would be levied either indefinitely or for a term of years. Loeb also spoke on the desirability of making the University independent of the legislature and for this reason advised against putting the proposed tax in the constitution.

Dean Loeb, who has been connected with Missouri University for the past thirty-three years will become Dean of Business and Public Administration at Washington University next fall. He was a member of the last constitutional convention.

Macon, Mo., June 4.—St. Joseph was chosen here at the State Letter Carrier Association convention as the scene of the next annual meeting place. T. M. Thomas, local carrier was chosen as delegate at large to the National convention to be held in Detroit next September, with C. J. Gerber of Jefferson City as alternate.

The convention before adjourning endorsed the Stanfield-Lehlback retirement bill now before Congress, which provides for a pension after thirty years of service.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 4.—The fund for executive department printing is virtually exhausted, according to a report made public today. With less than five months of the biennial period past, it is indicated that the printing fund will face another deficit before additional appropriations can be made.

The acute situation is brought about by the meager appropriation by the recent legislature of $35,000 which was further sliced by Governor Baker when making the funds conform to revenue income.

The printing deficit for the years 1923 and 1924 amounted to $96,949.

Joplin, Mo., June 4.—The body of Theodore Craig, 22, one of two entombed miners in the M. & S. mine here was recovered early this morning. Harry Long, 34, the other entrapped man was rescued alive. The men were caught when a portion of the roof in an entry in which they were working fell. The mine is located about four miles east of here.

Columbia, Mo., June 4.—Theodore T. Martin, State leader of the Missouri Boys' and Girls' Agricultural Clubs, announced today that Missouri will be represented by a dairy demonstration team at the National Dairy Exposition to be held at Indianapolis, Oct. 10 to 17. He further stated that the champion team at the Sedalia State fair will be the one chosen to represent the State.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., June 4.—Police have been asked to aid in the search for the two sons of Herbert Snow, chef at a local hotel, who are reported to have been missing from home since last Sunday. One of the boys is 8 years old and the other 10.

It is believed the boys attempted to follow their grandparents to their home in St. Louis following the visit of the latter here last week.

Columbia, Mo., June 4.—According to Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary of State Historical Society, the famous Missouri grasshopper plague occurred fifty years ago this week.

Dense swarms of insects clouded the air and vast sections of the state were laid waste, the insects devouring everything. So appalling was destruction during June, 1875, that Governor Charles H. Hardin, set aside June 3 of that year as a day of prayer and fasting.

The grasshopper plague of 1875 was due to the invasion of the insects the previous year from the northwest. Eggs laid the preceding fall hatched in astounding numbers.

Farmers worked heroically to save their crops but to no avail. None of the measures they tried afforded them anything but temporary relief. The destruction of crops, grasses, orchards and trees continued from the middle of May to the first of July.

Trains on the Missouri Pacific and Cameron branch of the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad, according to the existing records, were stopped. Cattle were fed on tree leaves and straw. It is said the grasshoppers ate the wool off the backs of sheep. Meadows and blue grass were quickly dispatched, while all green crops were cut to the ground. Potato, tomato and tobacco plants were the last to disappear.

Cities in Missouri and other states held meetings. Money and food was dispatched to the ruined regions. In an effort to help the farmers who had suffered from the ravishes of the insects, the state board of equalization lowered assessments on farm lands that year.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 4.—After setting the docket for the June term out court, Judge Westhues ordered the county court to select a grand jury. The jury will be instructed by Judge Westhues Monday, June 22. The court explained his action as being governed by the fact that there had been no session of the grand jury in Cole county for two years and it was time one was being called.

Probably the largest docket in the history of Cole county is made up for the June term. About 180 cases are listed.

Mrs. Longworth Gets $5,000.

Washington, June 3 (United Press).—"Princess Paulina" Longworth has $5,000 in the bank and her mother, Alice Roosevelt Longworth wife of the new speaker of the house, will have her picture in the papers advertising a certain brand of beauty cream.

Mrs. Longworth laughingly admitted she had consented to have her portrait painted for the beauty cream firm for advertising purposes for the sum named, but she refused to be interviewed. The portrait is a half length of Mrs. Longworth seated in a chair. Wayburn Adams is the artist.

Paulina, three months old daughter of the Longworths, is the beneficiary. The $5,000 became a little nest egg for her future fortune.

No Wives With These Shriners.

Los Angeles, June 3. (United Press)—At least nobles of Calam Temple, Lewiston, Idaho, came to the annual Shrine conclave without their wives.

Arm in arm they paraded downtown streets for hours chanting merrily:

"There are no wives with us.

"There are no wives with us.

"There may be wives with some of the guys,

"But there are no wives with us."

No Respectable German Girl Bobs Her Hair.

Vienna, June 3.—Chancellor Sparl has been forced to close the main building of the University of Vienna because of the behavior of Pan-German undergraduates who seized and dragged about all bobbed haired girl students, exhibition banners saying:

"No respectable German girl bobs her hair."

The police were called in and made numerous arrests.
